Arrowhead Center / New Mexico State University
Services for Businesses and Entrepreneurs

Deborah Peacock and Peacock Myers are pleased to have represented New Mexico State University and Arrowhead Center for 25+ years. Steve McLary, Registered Patent Attorney at Peacock Myers, is an Enterprise Advisor for Arrowhead and works closely with entrepreneurs to counsel them regarding business and intellectual property issues. He holds office hours weekly at Arrowhead Center. Deborah A. Peacock, P.E., is a Board member of Arrowhead Innovation Network (“AIN”). AIN brings together a closely connected group of partners, inventors, researchers, entrepreneurs, investors, and economic development specialists.

Arrowhead Center at New Mexico State University is dedicated to economic development through commercializing innovations and launching and developing new businesses across the state of NM. Arrowhead supports entrepreneurs with technical and business assistance, including feasibility studies, business modeling, intellectual property consultation, market analyses, customer development, prototype development and usability testing of products and technologies. Arrowhead Center also offers services through the NM Small Business Assistance (NMSBA) program, sponsored by Sandia National Laboratories and Los Alamos National Laboratory.

For technology-based small businesses, Arrowhead Technology Incubator (ATI) provides regular business workshops, networking events, mentoring, assistance with capital sourcing and collaborative work-ready space. ATI serves companies that span across various industries, with focus on water, energy, agriculture and bio tech. Members have the option to operate virtually, co-work, or lease an office at a nominal cost.

Studio G works with NMSU students and recent graduates to help them develop their businesses.
