

2013 Governor's New Mexico Distinguished
Public Service Award (November 2013)

Peacock Myers, P.C. is very proud to announce that Deborah Peacock has been awarded the 2013 Governor's New Mexico Distinguished Public Service Award! Deborah is being recognized for her dedication to public service and to the betterment of life in New Mexico. The Distinguished Public Service Award is considered the highest award in our State.

This prestigious award honors New Mexicans who have demonstrated an outstanding dedication to New Mexico and its citizens. This year, thirteen individuals have been recognized. Deborah is being honored in the Business and Civic category. She will receive her award on November 12, 2013.

Deborah donates countless hours of her time as Chair of the Environmental Improvement Board and as a Regent at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology. She also serves on the following non-profit boards: Georgia O'Keeffe Museum; Explora Science Center and Children's Museum; New Mexico Angels (angel investments); Albuquerque Community Foundation; International Women's Forum (both NM and NY); New Mexico Israel Business Exchange; and the Kirtland Air Force Base Partnership Committee. In addition, Deborah and Peacock Myers, P.C., have a very liberal and progressive Volunteerism Policy for all of their employees to encourage community service.

Way to go Deborah!
